Agra: Ruksar Bano and her family have been living under tarpaulin for the past seven days after their house was demolished on August 9. It was among the 135 dwellings marked as "illegal encroachments on government land" in the Nai Basti area near the Shri Krishna Janamasthan temple in Mathura.

"Everything is gone," she said, pointing to the rubble that was once her house. "What use is the Supreme Court order asking for the Local residents had filed a petition in the civil court against the notice by the Railways earlier claiming land ownership.

"The court had issued a notice to the Railways seeking a response to the matter we had raised. After a month, the Railways sought additional time to file a response. It didn't provide detailed information. Even before responding to the notice, the demolition was carried out," said Mansoor Ali, 48.

On August 14, lawyers filed a petition with Chandra Sen, Radha R
